ARE YOU WATCHING CLOSELY?

THE PRESTIGE

editorial

Hallo Laserdisc- und DVD-Fans, liebe Filmfreunde!

Auch die schönste Zeit geht einmal zu Ende. Gemeint sind damit natürlich die zwei Wochen Betriebsruhe "zwischen den Jahren", die wir uns traditionell selbst verschrieben haben. Pech also für uns, dass wir jetzt schon wieder Mitte Januar haben, obgleich 2007 doch eigentlich gerade erst angefangen hat. Aber das liegt vermutlich an der etwas verzerrten Wahrnehmung der Zeit, die sich mit zunehmendem Alter einstellt. Nicht alles geht irgendwie zu schnell, aber vieles. Und man besinnt sich auf den tiefschürfenden Slogan "Mut zur Langsamkeit". Will er uns doch sagen, dass man nur dann etwas wirklich genießen kann, wenn man die Sache nicht überstürzt angeht, sondern sich Zeit dafür nimmt. Seien Sie mal ganz ehrlich: wann war es das letzte Mal, dass Sie sich Zeit genommen haben, einen Film so richtig in Ruhe anzusehen und sich dabei nicht von Alltäglichkeiten wie Telefon, E-Mails oder gar Faxe ablenken zu lassen? Es wird immer schwieriger, solchen Kommunikationsattacken zu widerstehen und sich eine eigene, kleine Insel zu erschaffen, auf die man sich zurückziehen kann und bei einem Gläschen Wein die Perlen der eigenen Filmsammlung zu goutieren. Und das möglichst in angenehmer Gesellschaft. Das ist uns zumindest in den vergangenen zwei Wochen ganz gut gelungen. Die schönen Heimkinosessions mit der dazugehörenden Gourmetküche (kleiner Tipp: indisch passt immer!) haben dafür gesorgt, dass wir den Start ins neue Jahr absolut relaxed angehen konnten und uns nicht sofort wieder vom hektischen Alltagsstress haben erwischen lassen. Denn das ist wichtig, liegen doch noch weitere 49 Wochen vor uns, in denen wir Ihren Wünschen mit Rat und Tat zur Seite stehen wollen. Damit also herzlich willkommen im neuen Jahr und zur ersten Ausgabe unseres Newsletters 2007!

Scharfe Sachen

In unserem vorweihnachtlichen Editorial haben wir ja bereits unsere ganz persönliche Sichtweise des tobenden High Definition Formatkrieges geschildert. Blu-ray Disc versus HD DVD ist natürlich auch im neuen Jahr ein heisses Thema. Jüngst nun kam viel Bewegung in die Geschichte, angestoßen durch einen der größten Industriezweige Nordamerikas: der Pornoindustrie. Angesichts der massiven Umsätze, die das Geschäft mit Hardcorefilmen mit sich bringt, handelt es sich bei dieser Filmgattung um eine wirtschaftlich sehr ernst zu nehmende Angelegenheit. Auch wenn sich unsere amerikanischen Freunde nach außen hin immer sehr schwer tun mit Nacktheit oder sonstigen Anzüglichkeiten erotischer Natur, so floriert das Geschäft dort mit harter Kost schon seit Jahren nahezu ungebremst. Die Anzahl der in den USA auf DVD veröffentlichten Hardcore-Filmen dürfte genauso groß sein wie die Veröffentlichungen in allen anderen Genres. Wer also könnte noch ernsthaft an der wirtschaftlichen Wichtigkeit solcher Produktionen zweifeln? Egal welches Heimkinomedium von der Industrie auf die Konsumenten losgelassen wurde, die Pornoindustrie war stets eine der Ersten, die sich neue Medien zunutze machte und damit mehr oder weniger zum Durchbruch der verschiedenen Formate beigetragen hat - auch wenn das die amerikanischen Moralapostel gar nicht gerne hören wollen. Ganz klar, dass die Hardcore-Bosse ihre fleischfarbenen Produkte natürlich auch hochauflösend dem geneigten Publikum ins Haus liefern möchten. Denn die guten alten Pornos sollen auch endlich mal richtig scharf aussehen - im wahrsten Sinne des Wortes. So dachte man auch bei Digital Playground, einem der führenden amerikanischen Anbieter nackter Tatsachen, und beschloss, die Blu-ray Fangemeinde mit scharfen Sachen zu versorgen. Aber man hatte die Rechnung ohne Sony gemacht. Laut Aussage von Digital Playground Chef Joone habe er von allen Blu-ray Duplizierern eine Absage erhalten mit der Begründung, dass ihnen Sony mit Lizenzzug drohe, sollten sie Hardcore-Filme auf Blu-ray-Format fertigen. Digital Playground kündigte daraufhin an, sich dem HD DVD Lager anzuschließen. So sollen in den kommenden Wochen bereits die ersten freizügigen HD DVDs auf den Markt kommen, darunter der von Joone selbst inszenierte Hardcore-Blockbuster PIRATES. Sonys Entscheidung zum Nein für Hardcore-Produkte auf Blu-ray Disc könnte somit auf längere Sicht zum Aus für Blu-ray führen - vollkommen unabhängig davon, ob es vielleicht die bessere HD-Technik ist oder nicht. Denn letztendlich zählen für die Konsumenten nur die verfügbaren Inhalte und nicht die angewandte Technik. Die Pornoindustrie - so scheint's momentan - spielt im Formatstreit das Zünglein an der Waage. Da wird es Sony auch nichts nützen, dass der neue Bond exklusiv im Blu-ray Format in hochauflösender Form erscheinen wird. Denn wenn sich keiner die teuren Blu-ray-Player ins Wohnzimmer stellt, dann wird man auch mit einem Blockbuster-Titel nicht den in Augenschein genommenen Massenmarkt damit erreichen. Es bleibt jetzt abzuwarten, ob Sonys abweisende Haltung gegenüber Hardcore-Filmen angesichts dieser neuen Situation aufrecht erhalten bleibt oder nicht. Es würde natürlich dem Ansehen einer Firma wie Sony ziemlich schaden, wenn man sich erst als Moralapostel aufspielt und dann womöglich aufgrund kommerzieller Interessen einen Rückzieher macht. Eine äußerst prekäre Situation für den Weltkonzern...

Baki the Grappler - Vol. 12: Last Blood

Based on a manga by Keisuke Itagaki, BAKI THE GRAPPLER is an action-packed anime of martial-arts mayhem. The series follows the adrenaline-fueled adventures of 13-year-old Baki Hanma, who is in training to become a world-class fighter like his famous father. But when Baki becomes dissatisfied with the slow pace of his training, he fires his coach and hits the road to earn real-world experience through actual battles with the world's toughest fighters. Encompassing a variety of fighting styles from karate and jujitsu to boxing and wrestling, this anime offers a virtual onslaught of nonstop battle sequences. This volume continues the series with four more episodes.

Final Fantasy VII - Advent Children (Limited)

This computer animated film picks up where the Playstation FINAL FANTASY VII video game left off. Cloud, the hero of the game, has retired into seclusion, but when a mysterious and lethal disease known as Geostigma begins to spread across the planet, and three powerful, villainous children appear, he reluctantly emerges to face the new and mysterious threats. Featuring some of the most spectacularly lavish computer graphics ever created, ADVENT CHILDREN continues the complex and compelling tradition that has made the Final Fantasy series one of the most popular games of all time.

Flushed Away (Full Screen)

This computer-animated feature, directed by David Bowers and Sam Fell, explores a whole new world under London. A pet mouse named Roddy St. James (voiced by Hugh Jackman) is pretty much spoiled rotten. His owners live in a chic Kensington apartment, and Roddy has everything he could possibly want—except friends and a family. Everything changes for Roddy when his owners go away for a few days and their flat is invaded by a common rat, Sid (Shane Richie). Determined to reclaim his apartment and boot out the intruder, Roddy tries to talk Sid into enjoying the apartment „Jacuzzi," which is actually the toilet. But Sid is smarter than he looks, and soon Roddy is traveling down the pipes out of his sheltered life into a world that he never knew existed.

Galaxy Railways - The Complete Series

Anime writer and creator Leiji Masumoto (STAR BLAZERS, CAPTAIN HERLOCK) fashions another imaginative take on intergalactic space travel in his sci-fi series THE GALAXY RAILWAYS. Sometime in the distant future, humans crisscross the cosmos on an unusual transportation system comprised of flying trains and protected by an elite guard known as the Space Defense Force (SDF). The SDF's newest recruit is Manabu Yuuki, a brash teenager who finds himself going against his mother's wishes to fend off train accidents, terrorist bombings, and alien attacks on the Galaxy Railways with the help of an oddball crew. Detically sustaining an aura of fantasy and wonder amid its action sequences, the sci-fi anime series is presented in its entirety with this collection of episodes.

Hare + Guu - Vol. 7

Based on a manga by Renjuro Kindaichi, the comedy anime series HARE+GUU fashions a charming metaphor for sibling rivalry. The series focuses on 10-year-old Hare, who lives with his loving single mother, Weda, in an idyllic jungle village. But Hare's peaceful life is shattered when his mother adopts a little orphan girl named Guu, whose sweet exterior conceals a dark, malevolent soul bent on torturing her new older brother. Funny and bizarre, the television anime continues with this seventh volume of episodes.

7th Heaven - The Complete Fourth Season

Stephen Collins, Catherine Hicks, Barry Watson, Jessica Biel, Beverley Mitchell, David Gallagher, Mackenzie Rosman
The heartwarming television dramedy 7TH HEAVEN blends sometimes-outlandishly comic situations with dramatic plotlines about serious social issues into a positive affirmation of family values and Christian morality. Produced by Aaron Spelling, the series centers around an all-American minister's family headed by Reverend Eric Camden (Stephen Collins) and his stay-at-home wife, Annie (Catherine Hicks), as they struggle with the daily stresses and joys of parenting. Meanwhile, the Camdens' five children—oldest son Matt (Barry Watson), athletic good girl Mary (Jessica Biel), boy-crazy Lucy (Beverley Mitchell), preteen Simon (David Gallagher), and precocious grade-schooler Ruthie (Mackenzie Rosman)—navigate through the trials and tribulations of growing up with wholesome aplomb. This collection presents all 22 episodes of the family drama's fourth season, which includes guest appearances by Lance Bass, Ed Begley Jr., Peter Graves, John Salley, Kurt Rambis, and A.C. Green.

Balzac and the Little Chinese Seamstress

Zhou Xun, Chen Kun, Liu Ye, Wang Shuangbao, Cong Zhijun - Dir. Dai Sijie
First love and growing intellectual awareness memorably intertwine in BALZAC AND THE LITTLE CHINESE SEAMSTRESS, a coming-of-age story set in a remote mountain village during China's Cultural Revolution of the 1970s. Luo (Kun Chen) and Ma (Ye Liu), close friends and sons of well-off parents deemed „enemies of the people,“ are sent from their urban homes to be reeducated in a small village. Their tough new existence is enlivened only by Ma's virtuoso violin playing and their burgeoning friendship with the beautiful daughter of the local tailor. She is known as the Little Chinese Seamstress (Xun Zhou), and as Luo sets his sight on romance, he declares he doesn't want to know her real name. Luo embarks on a reeducation of the Little Seamstress, vowing to cure her of her provincial ways. Their „school“ consists of a stolen suitcase full of banned Western novels, many by French writers, which opens their eyes and hearts to the wonders of the outside world.

Brooklyn Lobster

Daniel Sauli, Rick Aiello, Heather Burns, Marisa Ryan, Ian Kahn, Danny Aiello, Jane Curtin - Dir. Kevin Jordan
Based on a true story, BROOKLYN LOBSTER centers on a single New York family as they struggle with a failing family business. When the bank threatens to foreclose on his small lobster shop, Frank Giorgio (Danny Aiello) does all he can to save it. A landmark in the community, Giorgio's Lobster Farm belonged to Frank's father before him. As Frank focuses solely on rescuing the business, his wife (Jane Curtin) has taken his inattention to heart and wants out of the marriage. In the midst of their problems, their son (Daniel Sauli) returns home for the holidays to find both the business and his parents' marriage in trouble. BROOKLYN LOBSTER offers an intimate look at how a family relates when the elements that define them begin to change. Like most family relationships, the Giorgios' interactions are marked by both humor and heartache, giving this film a feeling of realism.

Candy

Abbie Cornish, Heath Ledger, Paul Blackwell, Tom Budge, Nathaniel Dean, Geoffrey Rush, Sandy Winton - Dir. Neil Armfield
In Neil Armfield's CANDY, Heath Ledger and Abbie Cornish play Dan and Candy, two young bohemians who fall madly in love while shooting heroin together. In the beginning, the couple's days are occupied with making love, shoplifting, and having a strung-out wedding day that ends with a lot of giggling over a couple of Big Macs. Despite Candy's disapproving parents, they cling to each other with a fierceness that shuts out any and all outside criticism. When funds or drugs are low they pop by the house of a pharmacology professor named Casper (Geoffrey Rush), who uses his professional expertise to supply them with pharmaceutical-grade heroin. As the reality of their addiction creeps to the forefront, they must turn to desperate measures to get their fix. Candy becomes a prostitute, and Dan a thief and con man. When Candy discovers she's pregnant, they decide to go cold turkey, but the horrific side effects of withdrawal result in a miscarriage. The two tumble into despair, and opt to move to the country to try methadone treatments. Candy's depression soon blooms into a full-blown nervous breakdown, and as

Confetti

Felicity Montagu, Stephen Mangan, Meredith MacNeill, Robert Webb, Martin Freeman, Jessica Stevenson, Alison Steadman, Jimmy Carr, Olivia Colman, Julia Davis, Mark Heap - Dir. Debbie Isitt
British actor Martin Freeman first came to the public's attention with his turn as the jaded and smitten Tim in Ricky Gervais's television mockumentary THE OFFICE. Freeman returns to the mockumentary format for CONFETTI, taking a leading role alongside a host of British actors, many of whom are also making the transition from television to the big screen. The film revolves around three couples who have reached the final stages of a magazine competition to find the most unique and originally themed wedding; the prize is a multimillion dollar house. Jessica Stevenson from Britcom SPACED plays Freeman's other half, and their rivals are a tennis-obsessed couple played by Stephen Mangan (from dark comedy show GREEN WING) and Meredith MacNeill (MAN STROKE WOMAN), and a naturalist duo brought to life by Robert Webb and Olivier Colman (who are both from BBC America's excellent PEEP SHOW).

Conversation(s) with Other Women

Helena Bonham-Carter, Aaron Eckhart, Nora Zehetner, Cerina Vincent, Brianna Brown, Thomas Lennon, David Franklin, Yury Tsykun, Olivia Wilde, Bryan Geraghty - Dir. Hans Canosa

Aaron Eckhart and Helena Bonham Carter give dazzling performances in Hans Canosa's CONVERSATIONS WITH OTHER WOMEN. Playing unnamed characters, Eckhart and Bonham Carter meet up at a New York City wedding and start flirting in a back room. Slowly it becomes evident that they have some kind of past together. As they consider spending the night in her hotel room — and how that will affect their current lives — secrets are revealed and futures are put in jeopardy. CONVERSATIONS is primarily a two-character drama, an acting tour de force for Eckhart (ERIN BROCKOVICH, THANK YOU FOR NOT SMOKING) and Bonham Carter (A ROOM WITH A VIEW, THE WINGS OF A DOVE). Director Canosa (ALMA MATER) shot the film in dual frame, shooting every scene with two cameras in order to capture different emotions and angles, and then projects them in split screen. Thus, the two frames sometimes show the same action from differing perspectives, and other times the present can be seen on one screen and the past on the other (as well as an imagined past, present, or future). The split-screen effect results in longer takes and stronger effect Comedies 2005 Ltbx 84min.

Leonardo DiCaprio, Matt Damon, Jack Nicholson, Martin Sheen, Mark Wahlberg, Ray Winstone, Alec Baldwin, Vera Farmiga - Dir. Martin Scorsese
Director Martin Scorsese returns to his trademark style with the violent, bruised, and bloody feature THE DEPARTED. Scorsese filched the basic storyline from Wai Keung Lau and Siu Fai Mak's masterful 2002 Hong Kong action film, INFERNAL AFFAIRS, which saw a policeman going undercover as a mob member and a mob member infiltrating the police force. Scorsese transfers the action to Boston, positioning Leonardo Di Caprio as undercover cop William Costigan and Matt Damon as undercover mobster Colin Sullivan. While Costigan and Sullivan get into plenty of nail-biting situations that almost reveal their true identities, Scorsese gradually unravels his strong supporting cast, including Jack Nicholson as Sullivan's mob boss, Frank Costello; Ray Winstone as Costello's

Family Pictures

Anjelica Huston, Sam Neill, Kyra Sedgwick, Dermot Mulroney, Jamie Harrold - Dir. Philip Saville

Philip Saville directs a star-studded adaptation of Sue Miller's bestselling novel in the made-for-TV film FAMILY PICTURES. Happily married couple Lainey (Academy Award winner Anjelica Huston) and David Eberlin (Sam Neill) were living a perfect family life in 1950s suburbia when their youngest son Randall (Jamie Harrold) was diagnosed with autism. Even though David worked as a successful psychiatrist, the stress of dealing with Randall's little-understood disorder placed an indelible strain on the marriage that prompted extramarital affairs, alcoholism, and eventual divorce. Decades later, the Eberlins' two other children, emotionally stunted photographer Nina (Kyra Sedgwick) and dysfunctional older brother Mack (Dermot Mulroney), confront their family's traumatic past—and how it shaped their own damaged psyches—when Nina comes home for a visit and rummages through a box of old family photographs. Poignant and cathartic, FAMILY PICTURES offers an emotional study of domestic tragedy and its impact on the family dynamic.

A beguiling fantasy comedy that accompanies a restless spirit from Earth to Heaven and back again. Montgomery has a happy-go-lucky charm as professional boxer Joe Pendleton. When the fighter's plane crashes after a bout, his spirit is removed—too early— from his body by the inexperienced heavenly messenger (Horton, in one of his best roles). A new body must be found. First, Joe occupies the body of a millionaire about to be murdered in his tub, and later a heavyweight boxer who runs afoul of the Mob. Throughout his celestial journeys, he finds his way to the winsome Keyes and his manager, Gleason. Followed by the 1947 sequel Down to Earth and the the inspiration for 1978's Heaven Can Wait. The laserdisc features a second audio track with commentary by Montgomery's daughter, Elizabeth Montgomery, who discusses the film, her father, and her own career. Academy Award Nominations: 7, including Best Picture, Best Director, Best Actor: Robert Montgomery.

Interrogation Of Michael Crowe

Ally Sheedy, Mark Rendall, Hannah Lochner, Michael Riley - Dir. Don McBrearty
An original movie for Court TV, THE INTERROGATION OF MICHAEL CROWE is based on the horrifyingly true story of the Californian Crowe family's double-victimization. When 12-year-old Stephanie is stabbed in her sleep, the police working on the investigation turn to the closest suspect: her 14-year-old brother, Michael. As the story unfolds, it becomes clear that the policemen are doing whatever they can to cajole a confession from the boy, convinced of his guilt by such peripheral evidence as his interest in Dungeons & Dragons. Starring Ally Sheedy (THE BREAKFAST CLUB, HIGH ART) as mom Cheryl Crowe, this tragic tale of injustice sheds light on some of the faults and holes inherent in the judicial system, among which human infallibility takes its place.

Marie Antoinette

Sofia Coppola follows up her Oscar-winning LOST IN TRANSLATION with her most ambitious effort yet. Based on the book MARIE ANTOINETTE: THE JOURNEY by Antonia Fraser, Coppola's film infuses modern pop-culture elements into a regal, historical biopic, resulting in a strikingly original work. Kirsten Dunst plays Marie Antoinette, a 14-year-old Austrian who is about to wed France's next king, Louis XVI (a fattened-up Jason Schwartzman). Her new life is a constant barrage of pomp and circumstance, which baffles the otherwise ordinary teenager. While love has nothing to do with the union between Marie Antoinette and Louis XVI, producing an offspring does. Unfortunately, Louis XVI shows no interest in having a physical relationship with his willing wife. Instead, Marie Antoinette begins to embrace her life of royalty, biding her time by shopping and partying and living the life of a spoiled teenager. As time passes, Louis XVI works out his problems and soon the couple has begun to bear children. But eventually, the impoverished French people become fed up with the disparity of wealth between the royal family a Monsieur N.

Siobhan Hewlett, Philippe Torreton, Richard E. Grant, Bruno Putzulu, Elsa Zylberstein, Frederic Pierrot, Jay Rodan - Dir. Antoine de Caunes

On a snowy winter's day in Paris in December 1840, a body is returned and exhumed in a large, official ceremony. France's famous former ruler, Napoleon Bonaparte, has died, and these are his remains, supposedly. Antoine de Caunes's MONSIEUR N. offers a fictitious mystery in the retelling of Bonaparte's (Philippe Torreton) final years. What he suggests is that the emperor may have escaped from exile, having faked his own death. In the years between 1816 and 1821, Bonaparte is a captive of the English on the remote island of St. Helena. He spends his days gardening, beekeeping, and writing his memoirs. A small inner circle of his compatriots surrounds him, most notably Cipriani (Bruno Putzulu). This otherwise tranquil existence is colored by the island's fallible characters. The unforgiving governor, Hudson Lowe (Richard E. Grant), is driven to deviant behavior over the rising cost of guarding a single prisoner with thousands of British soldiers. Furthermore, a jealous quibble develops between two ladies who vie for Bonaparte's love—an English woman named Betsy Balcombe (Siobhan Hewlett), and the wife of

Moonlighting - Season 5

Cybill Shepherd, Bruce Willis

Representing the point at which American television reached a level of mature artistry, MOONLIGHTING took the medium to new heights of sophistication while maintaining a sense of lighthearted fun. Fusing the drama and comedy genres while offering convoluted plotlines filled with „serious“ situations and cultural references, the show delivered laughs according to the tropes of more straightforward sitcoms. The show is focused on uncompromising former model Maddie Hayes (Cybill Shepherd, THE LAST PICTURE SHOW), who loses her fortune to an embezzling accountant; all she has left are a few money-losing businesses retained as tax write-offs. Among these is the Blue Moon Detective Agency, which Maddie plans to sell off until the fast-talking detective David Addison (Bruce Willis, DIE HARD, THE SIXTH SENSE, PULP FICTION) convinces her that the business can turn a profit. The two form a partnership, solving the eccentric cases that are forever turning up at Blue Moon. Meanwhile, the wisecracking, smart, but slovenly David and the beautiful, icy, slightly snobbish Maddie navigate the growing romantic tension bet

Narcotic

Harry Cording, Joan Dix, Patricia Farley, J. Stuart Blackton - Dir. Vival Sodar't

Produced outside the studio system for very little money, this supposed educational film warning against drug addiction is instead a sordid plunge into everything the Motion Picture Production Code tried to prevent America from seeing. Loosely based on the life of William Davies (the producer's uncle), the film follows the seedy downward spiral of a medical student whose debauchery takes him through opium dens, a carnival freakshow, brothels, and drug parties. Despite the obvious kitsch value and amusing slang, NARCOTIC remains surprisingly bleak, delivering still- shocking imagery along the ride.

The Prestige

British director Christopher Nolan's (BATMAN BEGINS) eclectic resume gains another interesting entry with THE PRESTIGE. The basic plot, which concerns the rivalry between two magicians in early 20th-century London, closely resembles a fellow 2006 movie—Edward Norton's THE ILLUSIONIST—and the two films are sure to be closely compared. In Nolan's film, Hugh Jackman and Christian Bale bring the characters of Rupert Angier and Alfred Bordon to life. Rupert and Alfred were young magician apprentices together, but became bitter rivals as their careers began to shape their adult lives and a terrible accident claimed the life of Rupert's wife. In the subsequent years Rupert has become wildly jealous of Alfred's superior talents, so in a last ditch attempt to steal some artistic ground he sends his assistant, Olivia (Scarlett Johansson), to infiltrate his rival's lair and steal the secret to a spectacular trick called „The Transported Man.“

Return

Sarah Michelle Gellar, Peter O'Brien, Sam Shepard, Kate Beahan, Adam Scott, Darrian McClanahan, Erinn Allison, J.C. MacKenzie - Dir. Asif Kapadia
In 2001 British director Asif Kapadia's debut feature, THE WARRIOR, a lyrical, beautiful movie set in the Himalayas, was named Best British Film at the BAFTA Awards. For his second film, Kapadia headed to Hollywood for the suspenseful horror flick THE RETURN, written by first-time screenwriter Adam Sussman. Sarah Michelle Gellar stars as Joanna Mills, an aggressive young woman who works as a successful saleswoman in the trucking industry. She pushes hard to go after a big deal in Texas, even though she had previously deemed the state off limits—something that happened to her when she was a little girl has kept her away from her hometown for many years. Filled with fear, trepidation, and determination, she goes back to Texas, even visiting her estranged father (Sam Shepard). As she sees familiar places, she has frightening flashes of deja vu, remembering bits and pieces of a tragic incident involving an ex-con (Peter O'Brien), an unseen man, and a bad traffic accident. The visions haunt her dreams, sending her back to her childhood (where she's played by Darrian McClanahan). Reunited with an old friend

William Shakespeare's Romeo & Juliet

Leonardo DiCaprio, Claire Danes, Miriam Margolyes, Harold Perrineau, Pete Postlethwaite, Paul Rudd, John Leguizamo, Brian Dennehy, Diane Venora - Dir. Baz Luhrmann
This ambitious undertaking, adapting William Shakespeare's classic tale of star-crossed lovers and setting the story in a glossy music-video style in 1990s Florida. Leonardo DiCaprio and Claire Danes play the famous lovers kept apart by rival industrialist families. Bookended by newscasters reciting Shakespeare's prose as their copy, this clever glam updating of ROMEO AND JULIET is one of the most unusual adaptations of the Bard's work in the history of cinema. The stylish and colorful sets earned the film an Oscar nomination for art direction. John Leguizamo gives a memorable performance as a devilish Tybalt.

Shortbus

Raphael Barker, Lindsay Beamish, Justin Bond, Paul Dawson, Yolanda Ross, Jay Brannan, Shanti Carson, Sook-Yin Lee, PJ Deboy, Peter Stickles - Dir. John Cameron Mitchell
Writer/director John Cameron Mitchell follows up the cult classic HEDWIG AND THE ANGRY INCH with another salacious slice of sex-laden cinema. Mitchell interweaves three separate tales of highly sexed and sexually frustrated New Yorkers, all of whom find some kind of salvation at an underground club named Shortbus. Anything goes at Shortbus—wild orgies between people from different ages, backgrounds, and sexual preferences are treated as commonplace, and most of the sex scenes shot through Mitchell's voyeuristic lens are completely unstimulated. Mitchell allows little time for his audience to pause for breath, opening SHORFBUS with a frantic collage of copulation and carnality that features most of his central characters. These include Sofia (Sook-Yin Lee), a sex therapist who has never reached full orgasm; gay couple James (Paul Dawson)—who begins the movie by felling himself—and Jamie (PJ DeBoy); and Severin (Lindsay Beamish), a dominatrix who finds herself unable to find true love.

Some Kind of Wonderful (Special Edition)

Eric Stoltz, Lea Thompson, Mary Stuart Masterson, Craig Sheffer, John Ashton, Elias Koteas, Maddie Corman, Candace Cameron, Chynna Phillips, Scott Coffey, Molly Hagan - Dir. Howard Deutch
Keith (Eric Stoltz) is finishing up with high school. A sensitive loner, he prefers to work on his art over going to sporting events and hanging with the cool crowd. Instead, he platonically whiles away the hours with Watts (Mary Stuart Masterson), the pixieish drummer girl he's known since grade school. But Keith does have one popular obsession: Amanda Jones (Lea Thompson), the most desired girl in school—and girlfriend of obnoxious rich guy Hardy Jens (Craig Scheffer). When Hardy and Amanda part ways, Keith finally has his chance—and true blue Watts will do all that she can, even if that means biting her tongue and suppressing her true feelings for her longtime friend. John Hughes' follow-up to the classic PRETTY IN PINK takes essentially the same story and flips the gender roles, with another positive „follow-your-heart“ message and a great soundtrack featuring the Jesus & Mary Chain, Flesh For Lulu, and the March Violets.

Flushed Away

Die Macher von „Shrek“ und „Wallace & Gromit“ haben sich zusammengetan und begeben sich für ihr rasantes Trickabenteuer in Londons Unterwelt... .. genauer gesagt in die Kanalisation der Millionenstadt, wo sich - gemäß dem Titel „Flutsch und weg“ - die Edelmaus Roddy St. James unversehens wiederfindet, nachdem sie sich mit der cleveren Kanalratte Sid angelegt hat. Der hat sie kurzerhand die Toilette hinunter gespült, um es sich anschließend in Roddys Heim im Nobelviertel Kensington bequem zu machen. Derweil der verwöhnte Schnösel Roddy das erste Mal in seinem Leben mit der Unbill desselben konfrontiert wird.

DreamWorks trifft Aardman, ein animationstechnisches Versprechen, das die klassische, hier durchaus auch wortwörtlich zu nehmende fish-out-of-water-Story in jeder Einstellung einhält. Virtuoso verschmelzen zwei Stile, CGI und Claymotion im Stile von „Chicken Run - Hennen rennen“, wobei Beweglichkeit und Eleganz ersterem, der Look, ausgeprägte Stirn und Augenbrauen etwa, letzterem zuzuordnen sind. Ein Meisterleistung schon das Untergrund-London, Abbild der bekannten Touristenmetropole, „erbaut“ aus Kanalisationsabfällen - so ergeben eine Uhr, eine Waschmaschine und einige Tassen zusammengesetzt Big Ben. Hier findet sich Roddy - in der deutschen Fassung von Ralf

Bauer gesprochen - plötzlich wieder und weiß nicht ein noch aus. Bis er auf die hemdsärmelige Rita - Jessica Schwarz gefällt als deutsche Stimme von Kate Winslet - trifft, die als rothaarige Freibeuterin mit ihrem Kutter die Abwasserkanäle unsicher macht, und an sie sein Herz verliert.

Maureen O'Hara bzw. „African Queen“ kommen einem in den Sinn - wohl gewollt, angesichts der zahlreichen Filmzitate. Schwimmt doch Nemo mehrfach durchs Bild, versucht sich Roddy als Agent Ihrer Majestät 007 und werden elektrische Quirlstäbe zu Jetskis umfunktioniert. Dennis Hoppers „Smokers“ verfolgen Kevin Costner in „Waterworld“. Womit wir auch beim Bösewicht wären. Der heißt hier Toad, wurde einst von seinem Besitzer, dem Tierfreund Prinz Charles (!) verstoßen, und trachtet danach, die Unterwelt zu fluten. Jetzt kann Roddy beweisen, wie viel Bond wirklich in ihm steckt, vor allem weil die fiese Kröte auch noch den übelsten aller Killer engagiert hat, einen gewissen Le Frog, den im Original look-alike Jean Reno in „Profi“-Manier gibt, aber - man ist särr, särr französisch - auf fünfstündige (Fr)Essenspausen besteht.

Upstairs vs. downstairs, vom (britischen) Kampf der Klassen handelt dieser furios animierte, höchst temporeiche Genrebastard. US-Grobheit paart sich mit englischem Understatement, fröhlich plündern die Aardman-geschulten Regie-Debütanten David Bowers und Sam Fell die

Filmhistorie, setzen für die kleinen Zuschauer auf groben Slapstick und gut getimte Gags, während die Erwachsenen sich an subtilen Gemeinheiten und gesellschaftspolitischen Seitenhieben erfreuen dürfen. Irgendwo zwischen den Wertewelten von Jerry Lewis und John Cleese siedelt dieser durchgeknallte Spaß, wahrlich keine Allianz des Shrekens, vielmehr eine Bestätigung des sybillinischen Chors, den hier ein Trupp Maden repräsentiert: Und die singen: „Don't worry, be happy“. Heart of the Game

One need not have any interest in basketball to be moved by Ward Serrill's incredibly moving, hypnotically riveting documentary. A HOOP DREAMS-style story transposed onto females in middle-class Seattle, THE HEART OF THE GAME follows a high school basketball team's trials and tribulations over six years. Though it follows a team, the film is ultimately the story of two unique, courageous, very different individuals—coach Bill Resler and star point guard Darnellia Russell. Resler, who has very little experience as a coach, has given up his career as a University of Washington economics professor to help out the Roosevelt Roughriders and their struggle to win the coveted state championship. Resler proves a brilliant and unorthodox coach, with an almost metaphysical approach to athletic leadership. Along the way there are setbacks of all sorts, not least of which is the race and class barrier between the poor, African-American Darnellia and her paler, richer teammates. With seamless editing, powerful characters and multiple subplots, Serrill's film unfolds like a great epic. And adding to the tale's innat

WEC 22 - Hitmen

In den pittoresken Weinbergen Frankreichs wandelt sich „Maximus“ Russell Crowe vom bösen Börsen-Hai zum sanften Romantiker und zeigt sich von einer neuen Seite.

So hat man den „Master & Commander“ lange nicht gesehen, in den Armen einer Schönen dahinschmelzend, französische Delikatessen goutierend und bei einem „petit rouge“ bebrillt über die positiven Seiten des Lebens sinnierend. Und das ausgerechnet unter der Regie von Ridley Scott, der sonst bevorzugt härtere Filmkost serviert. Im Prolog schlägt ein aufgeweckter kleiner Junge seinen lebenslustigen Onkel im Schachspiel, das französische Ambiente ist malerisch. Dann die Gegenwart. Das Kind entwickelte sich zum geldgierigen Schweinehund, der seine Kollegen („Laborratten“) schikaniert, Kunden reinlegt und durch dubiose Geschäfte an der Börse Riesen-Gewinne kassiert. Ferien oder Gefühle kennt der smarte Londoner Yuppie nicht und als er nach dem Tod des Onkels (Albert Finney in Rückblenden) dessen Weinberg und altes Gutshaus in der Provence erbt, nimmt er sich ein paar Tage frei, um den neuen Besitz zu verscherbeln. Erst einmal trampelt er wie ein Elefant im Porzellanladen herum, verstört die munteren Franzosen, bis er sich dem „savoir vivre“ nicht entziehen kann, unterstützt von den Reizen einer entzückend Kellnerin. Die Wandlung vom taffen Engländer im Maßanzug zum romantischen Engel im Schlabberlook geht flott vonstatten, auch wenn das Auftauchen einer unbekanntem Cousine mit möglichem Anspruch auf das Anwesen, den Läuterungsprozess etwas hemmt. Doch die Attraktion von Sonne, Sex und Vino erweist sich stärker als der Reiz von Big Business an der Themse.

Scott, selbst Liebhaber der Gegend, frönt offen seiner frankophilen Ader und auch seiner Bewunderung für

Jacques Tati (der Crowe feindlich gesinnte Köter trägt den Nachnamen der Film-Legende). Dabei greift er immer wieder lustvoll in den Klischeetopf - der Weinbauer ein knorrig-gutherziger Knochen, die Französin an sich ein charmant-offenherziges Vollweib, das Essen ein Fest mit einem die Zunge lösenden guten Topfen Wein, die zirpenden Grillen schöner als jedes Sinfonie-Orchester. Auf den Punkt gebracht, lebt auch der unkultivierte Ausländer unter gewitzten Galliern wie Gott in Frankreich, wenn er mal das Prinzip des „laissez-faire“ kapiert hat. Crowe auf dem Weg zum Connaisseur, Marion Cotillard als heißblütiges Love-Interess und Abbie Cornish als nettes Girl von Napa auf der Suche nach dem leiblichen Papa bilden ein Triangle mit funktionierender Chemie in diesem Sommerfilm, der den düsteren Herbst etwas heller scheinen lässt und bei dem alle Beteiligten wohl ihren Spaß hatten. „Ein gutes Jahr“ beschert zwei knappe gute Kinostunden. mk.
